Creating Electronic Reading Groups

David C. Caverly, Ph.D.
Director, Developmental Reading Program
Texas State University – San Marcos

Many students are reticent about completing the assigned readings unless there is a test. This workshop shows how to engage students with electronic study guides and a discussion forum about the assigned readings before they attend class.

Meet the presenter:
Dr. Caverly has been involved in developmental education for over thirty years teaching and coordinating learning centers in community colleges, four year colleges, and universities. He has written extensively in the field and is best known for his column “TechTalk” in the Journal of Developmental Education and his co-edited book, the Handbook of College Reading and Study Strategy Research. He is a Professor of Education at Texas State University - San Marcos, where he directs the developmental reading program and teaches in the Graduate Program in Developmental Education.

RSVP by March 19th to celt@bridgeport.edu.
Refreshments will be served.
