COURSE SYLLABUS

Please read the following course syllabus carefully, especially the course dates, times and location. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to communicate with the IDEAL Program office, your academic advisor, or the instructor.

The IDEAL degree-completion program is designed with the adult learner in mind. Adult learners approach learning with specific goals, want to be able to directly apply new learning to their work and personal lives, and tend to learn best when the coursework is problem-centered so that they are actively engaged in the learning process. In addition, adults bring rich and varied experience to the classroom, which becomes a valuable learning resource for other students.

The IDEAL Program assumes joint responsibility in the learning process. The activities and assignments in the courses build on the shared experience of all learners in each class. This is why each student’s preparation, participation and interaction in class activities and discussions are critical to the success of each course. The accelerated format of each course requires a significant amount your time outside the course to prepare for and complete the course assignments. This varies between students and courses; however, students typically spend nine-twelve hours per week on course material.

To participate in the IDEAL Program, it is expected that you will do the following:

1. Participate in and complete the online orientation prior to your first online course.
2. Obtain the required course materials prior to the course start date.
3. Login and participate in your course a minimum of three times per week.
4. Complete all assignments to the best of your ability.
5. Participate in the class discussions and demonstrate respect and consideration to the instructor and other students when they express themselves in discussion.
6. If you have any technical difficulties, you must contact the Office of Distance Education immediately at ubonline@bridgeport.edu.

If you cannot perform these six expectations, it is recommended that you drop the course. We look forward to your academic success in each course and the ultimate completion of your degree.

Semester and Term: Spring 2014
Day and Dates: March 9 – May 3, 2014
Time: Online
Campus Location: Distance Learning

Course Description:
An interdisciplinary course which employs history, literature and philosophy to examine and explain the cultures and values of a civilization over time and place. Works studied include primary historical and philosophical texts, as well as literary and artistic creations. Currently, the course looks at the civilization of the United States, focusing on the “American Dream,” its origins, growth and significance.

Prerequisite Courses: ENGL 101

Course Code: HUM, LA

Instructor & contact information:
Faculty: Joyce Stashenko

Email: jstashen@bridgeport.edu

Office Hours: Email at any time, online “live” office hours and phone conference by appointment. My cell phone number is 860.309.8999.

Biography: I earned a Bachelor of Science degree in English from Central Connecticut State University in New Britain, Connecticut, and a Master of Arts degree in American Studies from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut. I have also done extensive graduate level liberal studies work at SUNY Stonybrook online, which was a revelation regarding online teaching and learning.

I taught both English and History at Granby Memorial High School for several years before retiring in 2013 to pursue college level teaching. While in Granby, I taught American Studies in the UCONN ECE program (AMST 1201), as well as, UCONN US History (HIST 1501, 1502), and Advanced Placement US and Comparative Governments courses. The study of America--its culture, its philosophy, and its politics-- has been my main interest. Writing has always been an interest of mine and a feature of my courses.

In addition to teaching Composition, Business Writing, and Humanities at The University of Bridgeport, I am teaching Composition II on ground at Tunxis Community College in Farmington and English 099 at St. Vincent’s College in Bridgeport.
Required Textbook:

In addition, please read Self Reliance, Ralph Waldo Emerson, available in full on the Internet.
I will also ask you to see Director Ron Howard’s 2005 film Cinderella Man, starring Russell Crowe, Renee Zellwegger, and Paul Giamati OR The Pursuit of Happyness, directed by Gabriele Muccino, starring Will Smith, Jaden Smith, Thandie Newton, and Brian Howe (2006).

Many of these books are available used, at the library, or online. It doesn’t matter which published version of the novels you purchase as long as you read them. Samuel’s The American Dream is a new, hard cover text, and that will have to be gotten at the bookstore or online.
To order textbooks, go to the bookstore website at   http://bridgeport.textbooktech.com/
Select IDEAL Campus and login to the bookstore. Select the course and follow instructions..

Learning Outcomes:
Upon completion of this course, the student should be able to:

• Understand the concept of “The American Dream”
• Recognize that the evaluation of The American Dream very much depends upon who is doing the “dreaming,” what their background is, and what their expectations are.
• Appreciate how The American Dream has impacted every aspect of American life from art, music, literature, history and political science to sociology.
• Discern the contrasts between the earliest versions of The American Dream in the 19th century to the current 21st century views.
• Create a personal family narrative of The American Dream that places them at the center.
• Intelligently conduct online discussions via the Discussion Board in Blackboard.
• Think critically and analytically and draw upon textual references in expressing their thoughts and ideas.
• Appreciate the merits of primary documents, original materials from the period, in gaining a personal understanding of events.
• Attain a level of comfort expressing informed opinions on issues, both verbally and in writing.
• Contribute to the collaborative learning experience of the class by sharing their work and ideas and working in teams.
• Gain additional experience in writing and researching.
First Assignment Prior to the First Class:
Please be sure to have your books prior to class, as we will be pressed for time in this intense eight-week course. Please read the Introduction to The American Dream by Lawrence R. Samuel carefully (pages 1-11).
For credit, write a two-page narrative on the American Dream and your place within it. Using your best writing skills and referring often to Samuel’s ideas specifically and also to popular culture and media, tell the story of your dream. What is it? How does it differ from the dreams of your grandparent or from those of your contemporaries? How does your concept act as a catalyst in your life? Or is the American Dream no longer a viable aspect of American life and philosophy? You can say anything, of course, but you must explain yourself. What do you base your feelings upon? What actions, realities, and happenings have caused you to feel the way you do? Upload this first assignment on DAY 1 of class.

Assignments:
Check the weekly module for particulars, but assignments are of two types, Essays and Discussion postings.

Response Essays
There will be a three-page response paper due every other Sunday by midnight. That means you will be writing a paper every two weeks, including the first one, which is due on DAY 1 of the course. The response paper should answer some question about the text, which you can ask yourself or get from the discussion board. Your answer should be supported by quotes from the readings. You must reference Samuel’s The American Dream as well as whatever work of literature we are working with. The response should be uploaded in the module where it was assigned and should be about 750 words in length (approx. three double-spaced pages).

These 4 essays are worth a combined 60% of your grade.

Final Exam Essay
In addition, there will be a final exam essay in which you relate our study of the American Dream to ideas conveyed in a work of art, poetry or song lyrics for 20% of your grade.

Discussion Postings
The discussion boards are the “heart and soul” of an online course. Postings will be evaluated for effort, thoroughness, understanding of the assignment, spelling and grammar, and timeliness of posting. Late discussion postings will not be accepted. Timely online class participation is essential to this course.

Each student must post at least twice a week – once (by midnight on Thursday) to explore an idea based on the week’s reading assignment (a “thread starter”) and once (by midnight on Sunday) in detailed response to a peer’s posting. It is expected that postings will demonstrate a close reading of and a thoughtful reaction to the assigned texts. This writing must be your own work and must not be taken from outside sources. Late work cannot be accepted, as this is a community forum -- which depends upon participation by all. Discussion board postings are worth 20% of your grade.

Description of Weekly Sessions:
Check the module each week for the reading, discussion board, and writing requirements. Every week we will read a book, essay, or see a film. Every week you will be asked to discuss the reading in discussion board and also to respond to the ideas of your peers. Every two weeks you will write a short response paper.

Grading Criteria:
Reaction / Response Essay

Description: A Reaction/Response Essay is a writing assignment where you express your personal thoughts, interpretation, and evaluation of a particular topic; which could be presented through the textbook, an article, a film, recorded music or speech, etc. It is not a research essay and investigation into other sources is not necessary.

Questions you might ask yourself:

- How do you feel about the topic?
- Do you agree with the author’s conclusion based on the presentation of facts?
- Could there have been another interpretation?
- How has this reading impacted your view of the topic?
- Did you realize something that was unknown to you before?
- Did the reading simply reinforce ideas and beliefs you already had about the topic?
- Did you in anyway identify with the topic?

In discussing your reaction/response, it is important to make references to evidence presented. For example, if you disagree with the point of view of the author, please reference the specific point you disagree with and support your claims with examples from the presentation. The intent of the essay is for you to understand your reaction/response to the topic and express it in a logical, succinct and compelling manner.

Essay Format:

- APA Style [refer to: http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/]
- Length: 2-3 Pages or 650-1,200 words.
- Typed using 1” Margins; Double-spaced; 12 point font.
- Include: Your Name; Course Name; Instructor’s Name; Title; and Date.

Introductory Paragraph:
Introduce the presentation of the topic; Book or Article Title, Author, and the year it was published.

Very brief summary of the topic.

Thesis statement: Describe the specific issue that you are responding or reacting to; agree, disagree, connect with, evaluate etc.

Organizing Ideas, Opinions, and Viewpoints:

- Thesis statement forms the basis of the essay.
- Decide on a few key ideas that express your thesis statement.
- Describe at least three of these key ideas.
- Develop your ideas in each paragraph by using examples, giving details, and using material from the presentation.
- While the use of the first person “I” is generally not appropriate for academic essays, it is appropriate for a response/reaction essay since it is your personal response.

Body of the Essay:

Discuss the topic and your response/reaction to it referring to the presentation. If disputing the facts or the conclusions, give solid reasons to support your interpretation.

While this is not a research essay, you can certainly refer to class lectures, other readings or books. Always be accurate with the titles and authors. If you use any quotes from the text book, you may use parenthetical citation. If you quote from another book, then a footnote is necessary.

Concluding Paragraph:

Reiteration of your thesis statement and restatement of your response/reaction.

Conclude.

ACADEMIC POLICIES

Attendance Policy
Course attendance via online participation is an integral part of the online academic experience; therefore, students are expected to be participative in all course activities and discussions. If an absence is unavoidable, the student should communicate with the instructor. Arrangements should be made at that time for submission of any missed assignments.

IMPORTANT:
- An absence (lack of participation) in any week of the course, will drop the final grade by one letter grade (for example if a student earns a grade of “B” in the course, the final grade would be a “C”).
- An absence of two or more weeks will be cause for a failing grade.

Drop Procedures
To drop a course, you must complete and submit a Schedule Change Request Form. The form can be accessed at the IDEAL Course Schedule webpage: http://www.bridgeport.edu/academics/continuinged/ideal-academic-degree-programs-and-certificates/ideal-course-schedule/.

Please print and complete the form and fax the form to the IDEAL Office: 203-576-4537. Prior to dropping a course, the student should contact their IDEAL Academic Advisor to understand the implications to financial aid and/or degree plan progress.

Please review the drop fees and tuition refunds at the Academic Calendar; accessed at the IDEAL Course Schedule webpage (same link above).

Cell Phones
Cell phones must be turned off (or placed on “vibrate”) while in the classroom. A cell phone call is disruptive and disrespectful to the other students in the class.

Academic Dishonesty
The IDEAL program prohibits all forms of academic dishonesty. Academic dishonesty is normally defined as, but not limited to, the following two categories:

Cheating – Using inappropriate sources of information in an assignment or on a test. The following are examples of cheating taken from real student experiences:

Case #1: A student is enrolled in an introductory psychology course. He has co-workers who have taken the same course. As the end of the course approaches, he wonders how he will find the time to get the research paper finished, and asks one of his co-workers for help. His co-worker hands him a research paper that he submitted in a similar course. The student makes minor modifications to the paper, and submits it under his own name.
Case #2: A student enrolled in a humanities course is unsure about how to structure an essay. She is doing research on the World Wide Web, and comes across an essay written by a student from another university. Using her computer mouse, she copies and pastes the essay into her word processor. She goes to great lengths to re-word the paper in her own style, but essentially leaves the content and organization the same.

Plagiarism – Intentional as well as unintentional failure to acknowledge sources as well as the use of commercially available so-called “research papers” without full recognition of the source. Presenting as one’s own, the ideas, words, or products of another. The following are examples of plagiarism taken from real student experiences:

Case #3: A student is conducting research for a Civil War research paper. He has reviewed work on the Internet. Finding helpful information, he has summarized his findings without citing his sources. He believes that minor paraphrasing is all that is necessary.

Case #4: A student is writing a paper that requires her to address specific topics and problems in the assigned course textbook. She takes the information directly from the textbook with slight modification, without giving any citation. She thinks that since it is the course textbook, she doesn’t have to use quotations or citations.

Academic dishonesty applies to all courses, assignments or exams completed by students and submitted as their own original work, whether in person or by electronic means. The University does not tolerate cheating in any form. It is a serious breach of conduct with serious consequences. Instructors have the right to determine the appropriate penalty for academic dishonesty in their own courses; generally, however, such acts will result in a failing grade for the assignment and/or the course. The penalty for subsequent acts of academic dishonesty may include expulsion.

More information on how to recognize plagiarism can be found at this site: http://www.indiana.edu/~istd/plagiarism_test.html

Ethics Statement of Confidentiality
An integral component of an IDEAL course is student and faculty expression of personal experiences for the purpose of facilitating coursework. Students enrolled in the program are expected to honor confidentiality as it pertains to student disclosure. Shared information, comments, or opinions expressed by another student or the faculty member during the course of classroom discussion should never be used in a manner which is intended to humiliate, embarrass, harass, damage, or otherwise injure other students in their personal, public, or business lives. In addition, confidentiality must be upheld by not disclosing any information that would identify any particular individual.
