Master's Degree in Public Health

Advance your career in Public Health with an MPH degree

Our Master of Public Health (MPH) online degree program at University of Bridgeport prepares public health practitioners for complex local, national, and global issues in public health by providing a relevant and innovative competency-based curriculum.

Improve the well-being of your community

The MPH online program will prepare you for a variety of roles in public health administration, policy, and advocacy through content that engages both the science and practice of public health management. The skills acquired in the MPH program are both practical and transferable to a number of healthcare fields. Program goals align with the mission of Health People 2030, which promotes, strengthens, and evaluates the nation's efforts to improve the health and well-being of all people.

Learn how to tackle a range of public health issues from acute and chronic illnesses to lifestyle and health behavior change, including maternal and child health, the opioid epidemic, Medicare for all, influenza, obesity, and emerging health issues.

Accelerated professional opportunities

University of Bridgeport offers an accelerated MPH degree track for undergraduate Health Science students with a concentration in community health — enabling students to earn their BS and MPH in only five years by beginning master-level studies during their senior year. To earn and maintain eligibility undergraduates must compete 75 credits and maintain a GPA of 3.0.

Get your career on track faster

Our program offers the flexibility to complete your master's degree entirely online. The program is perfectly suited for working professionals or those seeking a career change. With our accelerated format, you can complete your master's in Public Health in 12-15 months. There are six start dates per year, so it is always a good time to apply!

Support for all levels of experience

Our student body is diverse, including various allied health care professionals looking to further their knowledge of public health at large, as well as those changing careers into the public health field. Our faculty are highly experienced at teaching to diverse groups of students. You and your peers will be supported with fast-paced, in-depth instruction and feedback. All of our faculty are public health practitioners with extensive knowledge and experience in the field.

No GRE required

We don't require GRE scores for admission. We know those in healthcare work hard enough, so there's no need to take additional tests prior to admittance into the program.
