

Center for Student Involvement

The Center for Student Involvement aims to create a vibrant campus community through active student engagement. The Center for Student Involvement accomplishes its vision by creating opportunities for students to become engaged in student organizations and leadership development.

The Center for Student Involvement provides mentorship and development for all student clubs and organizations. Events and activities approved by the department are designed to motivate, challenge, introduce, and create opportunities for education — both inside and outside the classroom.

The Center for Student Involvement supports student development through hands-on experiences in the following areas:

- Clubs and organizations
- Greek life
- Leadership development
- Service opportunities
- Social events
- Student Programming Board
- Student Government Association

Benefits of getting involved

Your experiences at college are unique to you — no two students have the same feelings about their time in college. Getting involved on campus through clubs, activities, and student organizations can help shape your college experience leaving you with lasting memories and lifelong friendships.

Becoming involved will help you:

- Gain experiences that help you grow in other areas outside of academics.
- Open educational, social, financial, spiritual, and professional doors.
